A student’s decision to live on campus beyond the first year live-on requirement is largely influenced by location, quality and sense of campus community, everything that the Aggie Village redevelopment embodies.

PROJECT DETAILS
To be completed fall 2016 before classes begin, the Aggie Village redevelopment project will offer 973 beds in a global apartment community, offering an innovative learning environment.

The building will be LEED certified and focus on the university’s commitment to sustainability. Students living in Aggie Village North can access MAX, just two blocks away, and a car-share program on the site. Bike parking will be available for 80 percent of the residents, with more 800 bike parking spaces.

Aggie Village’s on-campus location is a valuable asset to students, particularly international students who don’t have access to a private vehicle. The complex will be part of Apartment Life, which hosts students from more than 80 nations. University apartments are comprised of more than 70 percent international residents, which offer opportunities for students to develop cross-cultural understanding and competence to help them be successful in the global marketplace and develop life-long friendships.
