One Health is an integrated, unifying approach that aims to sustainably balance and optimize the health of humans, animals, and the environment. It recognizes the health of humans, domestic and wild animals, plants, and the wider environment are closely linked and interdependent.

Formally recognized by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, International One Health Day provides an opportunity for experts and the community to join together in One Health education and awareness. The CSU One Health Institute invites you to celebrate One Health with us by hearing these special flash talks and a keynote presentation from the Dean of the Warner College of Natural resources.
